In accordance with the the IFRS, the Fund's portfolio is classified into Financial assets available-for-sale and Securities at fair value through profit or loss (held for trading). The financial assets included in the Financial investments available-for-sale category are measured at book value, adjusted for the fair value of these companies's assets, with the positive or negative difference being included directly in equity, through other comprehensive income.

The Securities at fair value through profit or loss (held for trading) are measured at fair value, with the positive or negative difference being recognized in the income statement.

In the first three months of the year, the Fund maintained its exposure to oil and gas companies` shares, as the oil sector remains undervalued compared to the rest of the economic sectors, indicating a potential of overperformance in the next period. Moreover, the regression model that reflects the historical evolution of the oil prices relative to the global crude oil demand and supply, indicates an equilibrium price of 81$/barrel, representing a 25% upside against the oil price at the end of the first quarter.

The reduction of securities at fair value through profit or loss, coupled with the increase in cash, was due to the partial sale of the investments in March, in order to mitigate the risk of market corrections. In the last two months of the first quarter, mature financial markets averaged a 6.45% decline, amid fears of inflation and possible raises of interest rates, as well as tensions between the US and China, which spread across the rest of European markets.

The Fund's equity decreased by 1.9% in the first quarter of the year, as a result of the incorporation of the result for the period of RON -1.99 million. The increase in the value of available for sale assets generated a growth in reserves and, implicitly, had a positive effect on equity, slightly reducing the unfavorable effect of the market volatility in the first three months of the year. The breakdown of the Fund`s equity is shown in the table below:

-RON-

In accordance with IFRS:	03/31.2018	12/31/2017

3. Events with significant impact on the Fund`s performance

Factors that influenced the company`s activity and results in the first three months of the year:

- External factors

- In the first quarter of this year, the price of oil rose from $ 60.09 a barrel (at the end of 2017) to $ 64.88 a barrel (at the end of March 2018), driven by rises/falls in US crude inventories and market expectations on their variations, the tensions in the Middle East and the the high level of compliance with the OPEC agreement to curtail production;
- In the first meeting of its Monetary Policy Committee in February 2018, the Bank of England left interest rates unchanged at 0.5%;
- Also, the Bank of England expects UK GDP to expand by 1.7% in 2018 (compared to a previous forecast of 1.5%) and by 1.8% in 2019 (compared to 1.7% previous forecasted);
- US Federal Reserve decided at the March meeting to raise the Fed funds rate to 1.75 percent, amid consolidation of the labor market and growth in economic activity;

- The US decide to impose a 25% tariffs on steel imports and 10% tariffs on aluminum, but also the possibility to impose commercial sanctions against China for intellectual property theft;

- Internal factors

- The extremely low liquidity of the Bucharest Stock Exchange, the low volume of transactions, making the Romanian capital market one of the last places in Eastern Europe to this end.
